

home

:: WELCOME TO SCHARLEY & PARTNER ::

Scharley & Partner is a consultancy company active in the human resources development sector, which has made a name for itself in the last 15 years as a specialist in the assessment centre and computer-assisted assessment methods fields.

We offer our clients professional assistance upon the construction, implementation and evaluation of assessment methods tailored to the requirements of the respective company. The undertaking of group and individual assessments for the individual development planning of internal employees or for the selection of external applicants constitutes the focal point of our services.

In addition, Scharley & Partner is one of the leading developers and providers in the field of computer-assisted assessment instruments. PC-based methods afford a valuable contribution for supplementing and complementing „classic“ methods, especially when in the course of an assessment complex decision situations are to be simulated and individual problem-solving strategies are to be analyzed in a few seconds.

more >>

Our products, which have been used in recent years with several thousand participants, also include in addition to PC In-Baskets and management games („networked thinking“) so-called management simulations which enable a realistic portrayal of typical everyday problems at the workplace of an executive.

Our PC product range is rounded off by questionnaire software which we use, for example, in the course of 360 degree analyses or for undertaking personality and performance tests.